

Newsletter Vol. 15

We are almost done with the semester!

This week we focused on the final polishing of UI and layout to create a unified look for the whole experience. Finding a right font and size for the dialog and journal was much more time consuming than we originally thought because depending on the screen resolution, the text appeared differently so we have to take that into account when we decide on a certain font and size. We also need to make sure the alignment, spacing, and padding are not off too much in different resolution.

We had rehearsals for the Philosophy department Showcase on Tuesday and Thursday with the philosophy class. The Showcase will be next week Wednesday, 5/7, from 7-8 pm. We will be there at 6 pm for set up and technical check. On Friday, we enjoyed our team dinner at Dave & Busters!

Next week, we will have our ETC final presentation on Friday, 5/9. We will be preparing Powerpoint slides on Monday and Tuesday, and rehearsing on Wednesday and Thursday. We will also be making Demo CDs for all our collaborators to enable them continue to show their works in the future even when the server is down.
