

Fear and Freedom Newsletter

Week 4 | Feb 8th. 2015

Hi, we are team Fear & Freedom.

This week, we focused on making individual systems and game scenes as well as trying to draw a diagram that can explain what kind of components are there in the game and how those are related to our transformational goals. The diagram is attached but it may or may not be fully comprehensible as the document was made for us to communicate internally. But we just wanted you to know what kind of ideas we are dealing with.

Next Wednesday, we are going to have a important milestone called 1/4s Walkaround where all the faculties at ETC swing by the project room and give us the first feedback of what we've done, are planning.

So we are going to crunch and hopefully we can make the game play flow by then so that everyone can have a better idea of what is being made.

In the meantime, I hope you can watch this stunning film about North Korea called DPRK: The Land Of Whisper if you ever wondered how normal North Korea town would look like.

Thank you very much and hope you have a great week.
