Week 4:

This week, we made significant progress with respect to the tool and decided the art style and theme and prepared the complete design for the clock game. The art asset list for the Tool and clock game has been prepared for our artists to start creating them.

We again visited Elizabeth Forward Middle School and tested our prototype on the SMALLab to get ourselves accustomed with the technical challenges to get our game running on the system. We also presented our tool prototype and clock game design to the clients during our visit and got valuable feedback regarding the clock game design.

We had a wonderful opportunity to showcase our progress to Anthony Daniels and get valuable feedback from him.

Our poster and half-sheets are finalized. We will finish and submit them, having everything ready for our Quarters walkaround next week.
