

JARED ETTINGER

914-261-8568

Jettinger93@gmail.com

Objective: Japanese- English localization in the video game industry.

Education

Carnegie Mellon University, Entertainment Technology Center, Pittsburgh, PA
Master of Entertainment Technology, May 2019

Emerson College, Boston, MA
BFA in Writing, Literature, and Publishing, 2015

Coto Language Academy, Iidabashi, Japan – 2017

Intensive course focusing on all Japanese character syllabaries, sentence structure, and conversational skills.

Relevant Experience

Sir Harold Evans/Reuters: Editorial Assistant; New York, NY – 2014-2015

Researched, drafted, and edited articles and books, such as NYT best-seller Do I Make Myself Clear? Why Writing Well Matters.

“Pixel Pizza” on WECB (<http://wecb.fm>); Boston, MA – 2013-2015

Wrote, produced, and hosted 2-hour talk show on renowned college radio station, featuring interviews with dozens of gaming industry luminaries and chip musicians.

Academic Projects

Building Virtual Worlds- ETC Sound Designer and Producer, Fall 2017

Provided narrative design, sound design, voice acting and directing to deadline-oriented team projects on non-traditional entertainment platforms including HoloLens, Vive, and Apple AR Kit.

“WURM”- Emerson College, 2015

Wrote and researched a 40-page paper on narrative in the titular game, also interviewing its director Shoichi Yoshikawa.

Experience

LiveTiles.com; New York, NY – 2016

Wrote and edited a series of tutorials and informative native advertising articles on a weekly basis.

The Reading Room; New York, NY – 2015-2016

Crafted no less than 3 feature articles, quizzes, and lists a day on books and entertainment, collaborating with an editorial team to publish over 50 on a weekly basis.

BreakThru Radio; New York, NY – 2015

Transcribed a multitude of radio interviews and published several weekly feature articles on lifestyle topics.

Skills: Copyediting, Knowledge of Japanese and Spanish languages, Sound design, Audio editing, FinalCut Pro, Adobe Audition, Audacity, Microsoft Office Suite, social media marketing.

Interests: Cosplay, Poetry, Travel, Swimming.